

Abstract of the Disclosure:

A bushing configuration includes a switch disconnecter connected to an electrically insulating casing in the form of an outdoor bushing. A tubular electrode is disposed in a region of a flange of the electrically insulating casing and the switch disconnecter and projects over the flange. A common gas area is formed by the electrically insulating casing and a housing of the switch disconnecter.